Delacour dog deaths criminal in nature, residents say

► People in hamlet east of Calgary claim they have witnessed senseless shootings ► One family has moved away in fear

JEREMY NOLA
@METRONEWS.CA

Delacour residents say criminal activity is responsible for the deaths of at least seven dogs over the course of two decades.

The most recent incident earlier this month claimed the life of a two-year-old named Doberman.

"She was such a gentle dog," said owner Darla Connolly.

Doberman escaped from her fenced-in backyard June 10. Connolly found her collar in front of the house, but her body was discovered days later in a field kilometres away.

Connolly says X-ray images provided to Metro yesterday offer clear proof the dog died as result of a gunshot wound, but the RCMP investigation into the matter is ongoing.

Sgt. Patricia Neely said investigators have not determined that anything criminal occurred.

"It had been partly eaten ... save for a necropsy, there is no way to determine how this dog died; however, we do not suspect foul play was involved."

Connolly isn't buying it. She talked with other neighbours, who said they had dealt with similar incidents before. Eventually, she was directed to the Waite family, who had previously lived at the residence and claim three of their dogs died as a result of gunshot wounds dating back to 1991.

Dani-Marie Waite said the deaths were a big part of her family's decision to move.

"We were fearful for not only our safety but our horses and other animals."

Psychiatrist accused of sexual assault

A well-known former psychiatrist who is accused of sexually assaulting his patients is set to stand trial against 10 sexual assault charges beginning on Aug. 19.

The decision was made after three weeks of evidence being presented during preliminary hearings. The judge heard from 17 different witnesses over a nine-day period.

Three of the original 21 charges against 72-year-old Aubrey Levin were dropped on June 1, and eight others were withdrawn at yesterday's hearing.

HIV-positive man admits failure to disclose

An HIV-positive man from Calgary has admitted to having unprotected sex with a central Alberta woman without telling her about his condition.

Paul Thomson, who is 34, pleaded guilty to sexual assault in Red Deer court. He was sentenced to the almost two years he served in remand.

Court heard Thomson suffers from fetal alcohol spectrum disorder and has trouble controlling his impulses. He's been placed under care in a psychiatric hospital.

Neighbourhood shaken after deadly home invasion

► Yesterday's murder brings Calgary's 2011 homicide total to three

KATIE TURNER
@METRONEWS.CA

Police are investigating a targeted home invasion turned homicide at a residence that was previously broken into in 2009.

Around 1:30 a.m. yesterday, police received a 911 call from one of the residents of a home that had been invaded. Upon arriving at the scene in the 1000 block of Marcombe Drive N.E., they discovered two people had been shot.

Insp. Cliff O'Brien said the home and its occupants — a woman and man in their fifties and a son in his twenties — were known to police as their home was invaded in 2009.

The father succumbed to his injuries while the mother remains in critical condition.

Their son suffered minor injuries.

"There's no information, however, to indicate that the two incidents are connected, but obviously we're very early in the investigation and we're not going to rule anything out at this point," he said.

Marlborough residents were shaken after waking to learn a murder took place in their neighbourhood yesterday morning.

"To know its right there is like whoa," said Janet, a resident who lives down the street from the home.

Three-year resident of the neighbourhood Boon Houn said he was woken by police and was alarmed because he has a three-year-old son.

Invasion facts

- There have been approximately 30 home invasions this year, and around 80 in 2010.
- Police describe the suspects as two males wearing dark clothes.
- Anyone with information is asked to call 403-266-1234 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

"When something happens like that, it's not safe," he said.

Royals confirm Stampede visit

JEREMY NOLAIS

The biggest attraction at this year's Calgary Stampede parade might occur before it actually gets underway.

That's because officials for England's royal family have confirmed the itinerary for Prince William and his wife Catherine during their June 30 to July 8 visit to Canada, and the Greatest Outdoor Show on Earth was included.

Royal enthusiasts hoping to catch a glimpse of the famous couple will want to line the parade route early, as they will ride a motorcade through the parade route in reverse before the actual event gets underway.

"We know that the couple, having heard so much about the Stampede, are looking forward to attending the events," said spokesperson Doug Fraser. "The Stampede is really an iconic and hugely popular festival and celebrates so much about what is special in Alberta."

On their trip, Kate and Will also plan to attend Canada Day celebrations in Ottawa, dragon boat races in Charlottetown and a military ceremony in Quebec City. They will tour a children's hospital in Montreal and sail down the St. Lawrence River as well.

The Northwest Territories will also see its share of royalty, as Will and Kate are scheduled to take a canoe ride in the isolated community of Blachford Lake and witness some good old-fashioned street hockey in Yellowknife.

Stavros assault suspect still not found

Crime Stoppers and the Calgary police are asking the public for help with a two-month-old attempted robbery in the northwest.

P police allege that a man attacked a Stavros Pizza & Sportsbar employee on Easter weekend. The two apparently struggled, and the employee managed to take his attacker's gun before the attacker fled.

A re-enactment of the attack was presented by Crime Stoppers. According to them, the altercation started in the staff parking lot behind Stavros, and ended in front of the restaurant.

Det. Dave Jennings of the Calgary police reminded Calgarians that for no amount of money should they risk disobeying an armed robber.

"A life is never worth whatever few hundred dollars or even thousands of dollars that might be in any given establishment," said Jennings.

Details

- 1 The suspect is described as being in his 30s, Caucasian, six feet tall with very light blond hair.
- 2 The police believe the attack was not aimed at the employee, but the establishment.
- 3 The gun used in the crime was stolen from Edmonton and was not loaded at the time of the attack, police say.

Art and music meet at Sled Island

► Annual indie fest features more than 200 acts at 25 Calgary venues

TODD VAUGHAN
CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA

Fans will know musician Josh McNorton as a mainstay of the Sled Island Music Festival. But this year's festival, in his new role as curator-in-residence at Alberta College of Art and Design, is a real labour of love for McNorton.

"I worked with organizing the talent in years past, but this year ACAD created a paid position to help organize the art exhibit at the festival," he said.

One of his first changes has been to move the art exhibitions into the same building as the music shows.

"I'm a musician and an artist, so showing the art at the music venues just made sense to me," he said. "This way, a lot more people will be able to see the students' work."

Among them is ACAD student Sarah Smalik, who is showing her mirrored sculpture Creature-Feeling at Royal Canadian Legion No. 1.

"A lot of my art is inspired by music, so what better way to show it to people," she said.

Smalik says her work has personal stories behind it, and the chance to see how other people interpret it is hugely satisfying.

"I love this setting and I love this festival, so, hopefully, people can come in and enjoy the music and the art," she said.

► Rand Trawick, front, and Stephanie Shewchuk were part of the large crowd at city hall yesterday to discuss the city's proposed cycling strategy.

Bike strategy passes checkpoint

► Cycling strategy heads before council ► Of $28 million proposed for it, $12.2 million needs funding

KATIE TURNER
CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA

Although a city committee voted in favour of moving Calgary's cycling strategy forward, some people were advocating to put on the brakes before the city starts allocating funding.

The vast majority of presenters at yesterday's land use planning and transportation committee meeting spoke about the dangers of biking in Calgary and the need for improvements.

However, Gary Beaton,

president of the Calgary atour de nuit Society — a group with a mandate to get more people to cycle — said the strategy as it stands is "completely inadequate."

"What it's done is not set any specific timetables for actually changing anything on the surface of the road. It's very vague," Beaton said.

Ald. Shane Keating argued the strategy is a good one. However, he said he believes the city should hold off on budgeting the funds during the upcoming 2012-2014 budget cycle.

"There's 10 million already dedicated to this project. There's another $5 million going to go to raising in partnerships," he said. "What I'm asking is ... the new, unfunded $12-million portion be at the end of the three-year strategy."

Cyclist Rand Trawick said the strategy makes sense but that he isn't holding his breath waiting for real changes in Calgary.

"I think it's really positive in a lot of ways," he said. "Will it actually get implemented how it was designed? I think I'm doubtful about that."

It has been a wet spring in Calgary, and many Calgarians looking to enjoy the great outdoors have been left looking for answers.

She said that keeping clients safe means keeping them off wet grass.

"Our clients want to train outside, so hopefully the weather co-operates," she added.

4th time's a charm? Tories try Senate reform

► New bill backed by Tory majority ► Would limit senators appointed after October 2008 to one nine-year term Prime Minister Stephen Harper's quest to reform the Senate began again in earnest yesterday, his new bill for term limits and support for Senate elections bolstered by the Conservative government's majority mandate.

But the proposed Senate Reform Act, introduced by junior democratic reform minister Tim Uppal, is already expected to face opposition outside of Ottawa and perhaps even within the red chamber.

Quebec Premier Jean Charest has promised to go to the courts if the provinces aren't consulted and don't provide their consent for any changes to the Senate. Other provinces, including Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia, have said they would prefer its abolition.

Uppal has said he will not let that opposition or court cases stand in the way of implementing the reforms. This is the fourth time the Conservatives have attempted to bring forward reforms, but the first within the context of a majority government.

At the same time, some Conservative senators have expressed reservations about the reforms.

The Conservative government points out that Parliament unilaterally changed the age restriction in 1965 through an amendment to the Constitution. Before then, senators were appointed for life.

The other part of the bill provides a framework for provinces interested in starting up Senate elections.

The prime minister would be obliged to consider the elected senators from the provinces, but ultimately would still make the final decision on appointments.

RCMP launches G8-fund probe

► Investigation prompted by complaint made during election campaign ► Comes after AG report on legacy fund

ADRIAN WYLD/THE CANADIAN PRESS

► Tony Clement, president of the Treasury Board and minister for the Federal Economic Development Initiative for Northern Ontario, goes to question period yesterday.

The RCMP is looking into allegations that the Harper government misappropriated funds in order to lavish $50 million on a cabinet minister's riding prior to last year's G8 summit.

The probe comes on the heels of an auditor general's report earlier this month, which concluded the government "did not clearly or transparently" explain how the money was going to be spent when it sought Parliament's approval for a G8 legacy fund for Tony Clement's riding.

The Mounties' involvement was prompted by a complaint from former Liberal MP Marlene Jennings. She was interviewed for an hour last week by three RCMP officers.

"My sense is that they're taking it very seriously," Jennings said in an interview yesterday.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baird shrugs at 'public relations stunt'

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird shrugged off

news of police involvement in the G8 matter.

"What this is, is a defeated Liberal candidate in the last election pulling off a public relations stunt," he told the Commons.

Former Liberal MP Jennings, who was defeated in the May 2 election, first sought an investigation in the midst of the election campaign. Her complaint was prompted by an early draft of the auditor general's report, which was leaked mid-campaign to The Canadian Press.

The early draft was much more blunt than the final version released on June 9. It concluded the government "misinformed" Parliament about the G8 legacy fund and suggested it may have acted illegally.

Jennings was contacted by the RCMP a day after the final Auditor General's report was released.

VATICAN'S IPOD IDEA HOLY HUSH? THERE'S AN APP FOR THAT

The Vatican is using iPods to lower the tour-guide noise level.

From a tiny booth in the back of St. John Lateran, the Holy See's pilgrim agency is asking tourists if they want to tour Rome's oldest basilica with an iPod loaded with an app designed to access art, architecture and history.

Agency boss Rev. Caesar Atuire said with a tap of a finger tourists can zoom in on high-resolution images of artistic details, such as the starry blue canopy above the high altar or decorated vaulted ceilings.

Apps users also can refer to images from the Vatican Library.

The iPod audio has a chatty format, with some narration by "char-

After the trial ends in December, the Vatican will decide whether to expand the iPod app to other Rome basilicas.

The cyberspace sirens

► Women like sexting, survey suggests ► They are more likely than men to send their raunchy photos online ► Today's web makes cheating easy

BEATRICE BEDESCHI
METRO WORLD NEWS

When it comes to sexting, women are naughtier than men, it seems.

Women are more likely to send online photos of themselves naked and engage in sexting — sending sexually explicit text messages, a new U.S.-based study suggests.

Researchers Diane Khoslos Wysocki and Cheryl Childers placed a survey on AshleyMadison.com, a website aimed at married people looking for sex outside marriage.

More than two-thirds of women respondents claimed they have engaged in sexting outside their serious relationship, compared to just over half of men.

► New U.S. research suggests females are the naughty ones in cyberspace.

About 77 per cent of women between the ages of 25 and 29 who were surveyed confessed to sexting.

Some 5,187 adults responded to questions about Internet use, sexual behaviour and attitudes about sexual behaviours in cyberspace, the researchers say.

"Our research suggests that as technology changes, the way people find each other and the way they attract a potential partner also changes," said Wysocki and Childers.

Weiner's lesson

- Sexting led to the ruin of U.S. congressman Anthony Weiner.
- He took lewd photos of himself and sent them to at least one woman online.
- After a weeks-long scandal he was forced to announce his resignation.
- Flirting online can be risky business for those inexperienced in the pursuit.
- "The Internet gives the opportunity to those who are not socially competent face-to-face to hide behind the anonymity," says psychologist Leila Collins from the British Psychological Society.
- "But at the same time, people should be wary of what is behind pictures and online profiles: what seems to be a 25-year-old man could actually turn out to be completely someone else."

► New labels on U.S. cigarette packs show smokers what dying of lung cancer looks like Rotting teeth. Diseased lungs. A corpse of a smoker.

Nine new warning labels featuring graphic images that convey the dangers of smoking will be required by the Food and Drug Administration to be on U.S. cigarette packs by 2012.

Other images include a man with a tracheotomy smoking and a mother holding a baby with smoking swirling around them. The labels will include phrases like "Smoking can kill you" and "Cigarettes cause cancer."

The labels, which the FDA released yesterday, are a part of the most significant change to U.S. cigarette packs in 25 years.

They're aimed at curbing tobacco use, which is responsible for about 443,000 deaths in the U.S. a year.

Health Canada, meanwhile, also plans to add larger, more explicit graphics to cigarette packages.

Farmer's life not going swimmingly: Fields are full of fish

Frustrated farmers in Manitoba say their fields are full of fish.

David Reykdal normally sees hundreds of cattle on his farmland.

But thanks to this summer's flooding, he's seeing thousands of ... carp.

Reykdal wonders what he's supposed to do when the water recedes and he's left with a lot of dead fish.

Darcy Hardman is the emergency co-ordinator for the rural municipality of St. Andrews but for now he's on loan to the rural municipality of Sighlunes to help out with the problems being caused by overland flooding.

He says he and municipal officials will be getting together soon to toss around some ideas.

But he says with high levels of water expected for a while yet, he's assum-

"Can we hold on for five or six years? I don't know."

FARMER DAVID REYKDAL, WONDERING WHERE HE'LL GET NEW FEED FOR HIS CATTLE

ing "the smart carp are going to swim that way and get back out into the lake again."

The high water levels are expected to keep rising into mid-July, so cattle farmers say they are facing an uncertain future.

Some hay fields needed to feed hungry herds are under nearly two metres of water, and producers are wondering where they'll get new feed and who will pay for it.

"In '55, when it flooded, it took five or six years to recover," said Reykdal.

Street View halted in India

► Clearances required from Home Ministry, Ministry of Defence: Official

Google has been barred from taking pictures of streets in India for its popular Street View service until it obtains approval from the federal government, police said yesterday.

T. Sunil Kumar, a senior police official in the technology hub of Bangalore, said the company would be allowed to resume filming only after it produces security clearances.

The Mountain View,

"We have security concerns. There are a lot of sensitive establishments in Bangalore and those pictures would be available in the public domain."

T. SUNIL KUMAR, POLICE OFFICIAL

Calif.-based company has so far not produced any clearance despite claiming to have it, Kumar said.

Officials at Google's India subsidiary did not immediately comment.

India is especially sensitive about detailed photographs and locations of key buildings being made public since the 2008 Mumbai attacks, in which 10 gunmen rampaged through city landmarks, killing 166 people.

Google India launched its Street View service in Bangalore in late May and plans to include other cities as well.

Street View has raised privacy concerns in many countries. In Switzerland the company is appealing a court ruling that obliges it to ensure all faces and vehicle license plates are blurred before pictures are uploaded to the Street View service. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Opposition bristles over back-to-work bill

▶ Liberal leader Bob Rae says proposed law to end postal strike is 'undemocratic' ▶ NDP to vote against bill

Prime Minister Stephen Harper says including wage provisions in back-to-work legislation for Canada Post workers is a fair approach.

But critics and the opposition say it makes the bill biased in favour of management of the Crown corporation, which locked out its employees last week after a series of rotating strikes.

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers says the rates outlined in the bill are less than what Canada Post put forward in its final offer, effectively punishing them for exercising their right to collective bargaining.

Opposition Leader Jack Layton said yesterday the legislation sends a dangerous signal to workers that if they don't accept management terms, the government will step in and impose them.

Harper did not explain why the wages were included in the bill.

"This conflict has been ongoing and it is causing harm to Canadians who are not there at the table," he said during question period.

"We are acting in the best interest of the Canadian economy and we are also acting in a way that is fair for all the employees of the Canadian government."

The two sides were to meet yesterday to continue negotiations. Upon introducing the bill Monday, Labour Minister Lisa Raitt had said part of its purpose was to kickstart stalled talks.

New Democrat MP Yves Godin said his party will vote against the bill.

Jobs on the line?

The Canada Post bill is being debated, and the government hopes to see it passed before the end of the week.

▶ The Tories are trying to limit debate, while the opposition parties are trying to scuttle the bill altogether.

▶ "The most vulnerable of Canadians are receiving minimal service and it's time to restore full service to all Canadians. Businesses are hurting. Jobs are on the line," said Tory MP Ed Komarnicki.

Staples' used wares put privacy at risk: Audit

Staples Business Depot stores failed to fully wipe personal data — including passport numbers and tax records — from laptop computers and hard drives they resold, says the federal privacy commissioner.

Jennifer Stoddart said yesterday the "long-standing problem" put customers' personal information at risk.

Details of Stoddart's audit findings were included in her annual report to Parliament on the federal privacy law for private-sector enterprises. The audit involved tests on data-storage devices that had a "wipe and restore" process done in preparation for resale by Staples. THE CANADIAN PRESS oceans."

You spill your coffee in your lap and read a little more: "Multiple ocean stresses threaten globally significant marine extinction." This from an international meeting of marine scientists who say if things keep going the way they are we will suffer the kind of mass extinction that did in the dinosaurs millions of years ago.

The scientists tick off the "multiple oceans stresses": Global warming, acidification, lack of oxygen, pollution and overfishing.

The scientists call for "urgent and unequivocal action" or we're done for.

How do you deal with this stuff? Put down your toast and call 9-1-1? "Hello? The oceans are threatened with mass extinction? Can you come right away? The coral reefs are already starting to die! Hurry!"

"Some people just take their heads and bury them at the beach. Global warming? What global warming?"

Except all these scientists say it isn't. "In fact," they say, this is "unprecedented in the Earth's history because of the high rate and speed of change."

Scientists? What do they know? How about the real experts, the dissenting journalists and oil company executives — what are they saying? The guy at climate-resistance.org isn't worried. He dismisses the whole thing as The Fishy, Wishy-Washy report: "Just a couple of dozen eco-warriors in a single room, chatting about their fears."

Well, not to worry. The guy at the climate-resistance website says to chill out.

So here we sit, amidst the crumbs, trying to figure out if these greybeards are really just little boys crying wolf, or a bunch of chickens freaked out about the marine equivalent of a falling sky.

It's the same thing on the sky-is-falling front. I mean, greenhouse gases? Come on! Just a bunch of (bad) scientists trying to whip us into a frenzy in order to secure funding. Although I'm not quite sure how funding follows frenzy.

The government is no help. It keeps getting the Fossil Award for its well-known addiction to the tar sands and fracking — which is as dirty as it sounds.

Oh, well. A couple of nice summer days and all this oceans-dying stuff will be behind us. After all, we have to get ready for Kate and Wills' state visit.

I wonder what she'll wear. How do you think she'll look in a biohazard suit?

LE BOURGET, France. The plane making one of the biggest splashes at the Paris Air Show carries a grand total of one person and is often delayed because there's too much wind or too little sun.

Andre Borschberg pilots the Solar Impulse, a prototype aircraft powered exclusively by sunlight. While that has put him into the record books as the first pilot to fly 24 hours in an entirely solar-powered plane, it also causes aggravations that travellers anywhere could relate to.

Like the time it took him 16 hours to fly to Paris from Brussels — five hours to cover the distance and another 11 hours circling over the airport, waiting for wind conditions to settle down enough for him to land.

The plane has a slim dragonfly fuselage with a cockpit that fits just one pilot. Its enormous wing is entirely covered with 10,000 energy-capturing solar cells similar to the ones used in some homes, which generate about 40 horsepower, "the same as a small motor scooter," Borschberg said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

He should have taken the left at Albuquerque

He's healthy, well-fed and far from home. And he's quickly become the most popular attraction on a New Zealand beach. If only he could talk.

A young penguin apparently took a wrong turn while swimming near Antarctica and endured a 3,200-kilometre journey to New Zealand, the first time in 44 years that one of the creatures has been sighted there in the wild.

Christine Wilton was walking her dog Monday when she discovered the black-and-white bird.

"It was out of this world to see it," she said. "Like someone just dropped it from the sky."

Wilton said the scene on Peka Peka Beach reminded her of the 2006 movie Happy Feet, in which a young penguin finds himself stranded far from home.

The bird "was totally in the wrong place," she said.

Estimated to be about 10 months old and 80 centimetres tall, the Emperor penguin was probably born during the last Antarctic winter and may have been searching for squid and krill when it got lost, experts said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

► Girl-Power: Britney Spears, Katy Perry, Nicole Kidman give Selena Gomez boost in new projects ► The new record — which has three songs co-penned by Gomez — is out next week

Katy Perry and Britney Spears appear on a CD together but it's not the latest Now compilation.

Rather, the pop singers have written songs on Selena Gomez & the Scene's new album, When the Sun Goes Down.

"I did have a lot of artists that I was very lucky enough to have songs written by and it's a good, uplifting album," Gomez said of her third CD. "It's really fun and very dance-y and I hope people like it."

Spears co-wrote the dance song Whiplash, while Perry co-penned That's More Like It. Singer Priscilla Renea — who co-wrote Rihanna's California King Bed and Cheryl Cole's Promise This — co-penned three songs on Gomez's album, including the lead single and Top 40 hit Who Says.

And the disc has a writing credit and guest appearance from British singer Pixie Lott.

"I think it's a powerful CD," Gomez said in a recent interview.

The 18-year-old's first two albums have reached gold status. The new record — which has three Days after her disc's release, Gomez will get another girl-power boost with the July 1 release of her new movie, Monte Carlo, which also stars Leighton Meester of Gossip Girl and was co-produced by Nicole Kidman.

Gomez says leaving Los Angeles to shoot in Paris and Budapest was "so refreshing." But the grueling promotional tour that has followed — maybe not so much.

Of course he wasn't talking about actual dollars, but the emotional cost of a sketchy education. He could also have been talking about the new Cameron Diaz movie, Bad Teacher, in which she plays – you guessed it – a bad teacher! More concerned with hooking up with a wealthy co-worker (played by her real life ex Justin Timberlake) than with her students, she doesn't make much of an effort to actually educate until she learns there's a cash bonus for the teacher with the highest classroom grade average.

Bad teachers are nothing new on the big screen.

In Animal House, Donald Sutherland played stoned-out college professor Dave Jennings. Sutherland said he has regrets about the film.

Not that he had to parade around dressed only in a shirt and effectively moon the audience, no, he bemoans that he didn't accept a percentage of the box office as payment. "(Director John) Landis phones up and says, 'I'm going to do this movie called Animal House, and they want to give you two-and-a-half per cent of the profits.'"

"And I said, 'No way! I've got to have my daily salary everyday.' So I got paid for one day's work and threw away $2 million!"

Probably the worst teacher ever appears in Class of 1984, a trashy school drama starring Roddy MacDowell as Terry Corrigan, a fed up teacher who threatens his unruly class with a loaded gun.

Director Mark L. Lester claims the scene was based on a real event, although a follow-up sequence showing an unbalanced Corrigan attempting to run down his students was pure fiction.

Due to excessive violence the movie was banned in several countries but is of interest to Canadian audiences for a performance by Hamilton, Ont. punk band Teenage Head.

One bad movie teacher actually redeems himself. When we first meet Fast Times at Ridgemont High's Mr. Hand (Ray Walston) he's prone to saying things like, "What is this fascination with truancy?" to his students, but near the end of the movie he softens and even pulls out all the stops to help his worst student, Spicoli (Sean Penn), graduate.

Ray Walston, so memorable as the uptight Mr. Hand, almost didn't get the part, however. It was originally offered to Munster's star Fred Gwynne who declined over objections to the film's sexual content.

No fun in this dysfunctional

► O'Neal insists new TV show is not a 'vanity project'

Actress Tatum O'Neal insists her new reality series about her rocky relationship with her movie-star father is not a "vanity project."

Rather, she says, Ryan & Tatum: The O'Neals is intended to help people.

"My whole reason for doing it is that people (will) learn from it. That's why I put it on TV," O'Neal said in a recent telephone interview from New York City.

"I've never seen anything in television ... that speaks to (the) very real dynamic of dysfunction, which I have with my dad. I think we did a very good job of being ourselves and showing the dysfunction that we really live with and I think people, just being able to see that, will get a lot out of it, good or bad."

Dysfunction may seem like an understatement when it comes to the relationship of Tatum and Ryan O'Neal.

The pair became inextricably linked in the public eye when they co-starred in 1973's Paper

► Ryan O'Neal and Tatum O'Neal

Moon, a film which made Tatum the youngest-ever actor to win an Academy Award.

But, according to a lightning fast set-up of their rift in Ryan & Tatum: The O'Neals, there was trouble early on.

In the debut episode, airing Friday on OWN, Tatum says her mother struggled with addiction. Her father, she charges, abandoned her when he became involved with actress Farrah Fawcett.

► Dave Salmoni, host of a new Mark Burnett television series Expedition Impossible, poses in Toronto.

Not just a host

► Canada's Dave Salmoni says Expedition Impossible more than Amazing Race ► Debuts on CTV Thursday

When Ontario-bred adventurer, animal trainer and TV personality Dave Salmoni snagged hosting duties for Mark Burnett's newest reality competition, Expedition Impossible, he quickly realized it would require far more than just welcoming contenders to the show and mugging for the camera.

The intense outdoor contest pits 13 teams of three in a series of challenges in Morocco, testing their limits with sand dune races, camel rides, mountain climbs and white-water rafting.

Salmoni appears at the beginning and end of each episode as he sends competitors on their way and greets the weary trekkers when they return. But downtime offered even more hurdles for the challengers, who were forced to bunk down in Moroccan-style tents between excursions, notes Salmoni.

"You see these people coming in at night and they're camping out and you watch them and you know they've got to eat and they don't know how to cook over a fire," says Salmoni, a seasoned outdoorsman best known as host of Animal Planet's In to the Pride.

"I was helping people with their fire, showing people how to dry out their clothes, showing people how to set a tent, showing people how to stay dry if I thought a rainstorm was coming in, all of the outdoorsy adventure stuff."

Expedition Impossible debuts Thursday on CTV and ABC.

Gossip Girl here: Leo's keeping things Lively

► Seems like blonde power couple Leonardo DiCaprio and Blake Lively are back on — and enjoying homemade whipped cream in California

Leonardo DiCaprio and Blake Lively are still enjoying each other's company, despite rumors the new couple had already split up.

DiCaprio and Lively hit a private resort in the coastal town of Carmel, Calif., though they did venture out into town for some shopping and coffee.

"Blake ordered two cap-puccinos," a source says. "One with whipped cream, and one without. But when she learned that the whipped cream was homemade, she added it to the second drink."

According to the source, DiCaprio waited outside with his baseball cap pulled down low while she ordered.

Liam feelin' the love, just not for his bro

Former Oasis front-man Liam Gallagher married longtime girlfriend Sara MacDonald over the weekend in England, according to E! Online, with Russell Brand serving as best man.

The wedding wasn't a family affair, though.

Liam's brother and former bandmate, Noel

Gallagher, skipped the event, as the pair reportedly haven't spoken since their 2009 split.

"He goes on about how he wasn't invited to my wedding," Liam told the Chicago Sun-Times recently. "Get over it, mate. I've not been invited to his wedding." ● METRO Warner Bros. and tattoo artist S. Victor Whitmill have "amicably re-

Artisanal Outaouais

► Just minutes from the madness of Parliament Hill are quaint boroughs full of country charm and local artisans ► Here you'll find seasonal cuisine and unique specialty products

GIZELLE LAU
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

A short hop and skip over the Ottawa River, Quebec's Outaouais region offers a captivating contrast to the madness of Parliament Hill just minutes away.

Here, Gatineau often takes the spotlight, drawing visitors to its Casino du Lac Leamy and Canadian Museum of Civilization. But look beyond the high-rises and you'll find the real Outaouais.

In and around Gatineau Park, a playground to many of Ottawa's VIPs, time slows as you coast through quaint boroughs like Wakefield, Chelsea and Montebello — chock-full of country charm and local artisans, dedicated to their craft, creating some unique specialty products and experiences for locals and visitors alike.

The Artists' Studio Tour is an award-winning trail that takes visitors to the workshops and studios of many specialized local artists and craftspeople.

Meet people like Russ Zietz, a professional log builder who now creates wood art and mixed media furnishings with a creative Canadian flair, and Mud Pies Pottery's Carrie Leavoy, a potter who creates Japanese-inspired products.

For those seeking artisanal edibles, visit the Boucanerie Chelsea, where owners Line Boyer and James Hargreaves have perfected the art of smoking fish and meat. Using only sustainable fish and the sawdust left over from carving out baseball bats, the smokehouse boasts delicately flavoured smoked salmon, scallops, shrimp and tuna.

Nearby, don't miss the award-winning restaurant, Les Fougères, where seasonal cuisine gets the fine dining treatment in a country-elegant dining room, recently named one of the most romantic restaurants in Canada. Homemade cured meats, terrines and Quebec cheeses are featured alongside local produce like venison, duck and bison.

If you suffer from sensitive skin, dryness or eczema, be sure to visit the Savonnerie Olivier Chelsea, where Sonya Ann Legault makes all-natural skincare products like soap, shampoo, bath oil, baby products, makeup remover and shaving cream.

Specializing in traditional craft beers using age-old brewing traditions of the Outaouais area, Brasseurs du Temps offers anywhere from eight to 12 beers for tasting. Visitors can enjoy beer-inspired dishes like smoked meat cooked in their brew or learn about the region's heyday as a centre for jazz.

To Roundit off, experience the authentic countryside hospitality of husband and wife team, Robert Milling and Lynn Berthiaume at the Wakefield Inn & Spa. With 27 well-appointed guest rooms, a spa and fine dining restaurant, the inn retains the heritage and character of the historic mill on which it was built.

Raising your glass to Napa

- California's wine country is easy to navigate by car
- Hwy 29 hits all the big names, but it can get crowded
- Silverado Trail is quieter, with breathtaking views

Blessed with lavish scenery and luscious wines, the Napa Valley is the kind of place you could spend days exploring. But it's compact enough that even if you only have an afternoon, you can still get a taste of wine country.

Located about an hour's drive northeast of San Francisco, the valley starts south of Napa and stretches about 50 kilometres north to Calistoga.

To get here from San Francisco, drive north on the Golden Gate Bridge and then take the Highway 37 exit going east to Highway 121/12, following the signs to Napa. From the east San Francisco Bay, take I-80 east to the Napa exit (Highway 37 east) and then go north on Highway 29.

There are two main routes through the valley. Highway 29 is a straight shot from Napa to Calistoga and hits all the big names such as Opus One and Francis Ford Coppola's Rubicon Estate. But it can get awfully crowded in summer.

The other route is the Silverado Trail, which avoids the towns, is quieter and has breathtaking views. The easiest way to pick up the trail is to take Highway 29 to the Trancas Street exit and go east, turning left on

Wineries along this long and winding road include Stags' Leap Winery, the winery that made the red that beat the French at the famous Paris tasting of 1976, and Darioush, notable for its striking architecture, which incorporates references to Persepolis, the capital of ancient Persia.

Max your card with Dita in L.A.

► Queen of Burlesque, Dita Von Teese gives us her guide to the best shopping, brunch and beauty spots in her hometown of Los Angeles

DITA VON TEESE
FOR METRO

Where would you start?

Once in a while I like to have brunch somewhere. I like the oatmeal frittata at Hugo's on Santa Monica (hugosrestaurant.com) or the Beverly Hills Hotel brunch for a particularly extravagant morning (beverlyhillshotel.com).

Where's your first shop?

The only time I get out of bed in the morning to shop is on Sundays, for the various antique flea markets. There is one nearly every weekend here in L.A. There's the Rose Bowl, which I think everyone knows, but my favourite is at the Long Beach Veteran's Stadium once a month (longbeachantiquemarket.com).

What's on the lunch menu?

I love Mexican food and I love vegan/raw food. Those are two of the things I miss most about spending so much time in Paris, so when I am in L.A., I head for my favourite places like Alegria (alegriaonsunset.com) or Cru (cruilverlake.com), both in Sunset Junction.

How would you spend the afternoon?

I love doing the grocery shopping! Whole Foods (wholefoodsmarket.com) or Bristol Farms (bristolfarms.com) are always the most extravagant for unique products to try. I love to cook, so I like to do my own shopping too.

Who offers the best beauty treatments?

In L.A., I love the traditional Korean spas. There are many fabulous ones, but I go to the ones that are open 24 hours and ... and haven't been commercialized too much yet. I like the ones that are only Korean women, with Korean soap operas on all night. I'm not naming my favourite because it's my secret spot!

Where should we stop for post-shopping cocktails?

The Spare Room is a very cool bar in L.A. where you can order lovely cocktails. We even developed my new twist on the Margarita, the MargaDita, which is a traditional classic margarita with Cointreau, fresh lime juice and tequila (thompsonhotels.com).

The hot shops!

For fabulous shoes

I always shop at Christian Louboutin. Not only is he one of my best friends, he custom-designs all my shoes for my burlesque shows. It's very rare that I buy any other brand of shoes ... well, I buy sensible flats and things like that sometimes from other designers, because when I get together with Christian, neither of us thinks about 'sensible' shoes, it's all about perilous heights and extravagance! (christianlouboutin.com)

Great fashion shops

I like to check out what's at Dior, McQueen, Nanette Lepore, Marc Jacobs and Catherine Malandrino.

Best for hot lingerie

There's a lovely lingerie store called Faire Frou Frou that carries glamour-girl worthy brands like Damaris and Fifi Chachnil... and soon my new lingerie brand too! I think it's the best store in Los Angeles for gorgeous, fine-quality, wearable lingerie (fairefroufrou.com).

Hunting for vintage fashion

I shop at The Way We Wore and Golyester, which are both on La Brea. My greatest find? Hard to say ... I've gotten a lot of my red-carpet looks from The Way we Wore! But the best vintage shopping happens twice a year and it's called the Vintage Expo (vintageexpo.com). I hate when I miss it due to my travel schedule. It's devastating! It's an event that has dealers from all over the country selling the best quality vintage. The first time I ever went I bought a beautiful 1930s hat, which is so beautiful and unique that it is now a part of the V&A Museum's travelling collection of hats.

The combination of shrimp, hoisin and apricots blend together perfectly.

These Shrimp Skewers with Hoisin-Apricot Sauce will be delicious with scallops or thin strips of boneless chicken breast.

Preparation:

- 1 Thread the shrimp on skewers.
- 2 Combine the apricot jam, oyster and hoisin sauce in a small bowl. Set aside half of the sauce. Brush the other half over the shrimp.
- 3 On a barbecue, lightly coated with cooking spray, grill the shrimp, until they are just no longer pink, about 5 minutes.

- 4 Serve with the remaining sauce and garnish with basil.

Try a variety of mushrooms, such as portobello, cremini or button in this Marinated Flank Steak with Oyster Mushrooms dish.

Serve it alongside steamed rice and bok choy or other green vegetables.

Preparation:

- 1 Whisk the soy sauce, hoisin sauce, vinegar, sugar, 2 tbsp oil, ginger and 1 tsp of the garlic in a small bowl. Place the steak in a non-reactive container, add the marinade, cover and place in the refrigerator for at least 2 hours or overnight. Bring to room temperature before cooking.
- 2 Heat the 1 tsp oil in a large non-stick skillet over medium-high heat. Add the remaining 1 tsp. garlic and mushrooms and cook for 6 to 8 minutes, or until the mushrooms are browned and the liquid has evaporated. Preheat barbecue.
- 3 Remove the steak from the marinade and set the marinade aside. Barbecue the steak until it's done to your liking, turning once. Depending on how thick it is, this can take anywhere from 8 to 15 minutes.

- 4 While the steak is cooking, whisk the cornstarch into the reserved marinade. Bring to a boil in a small skillet and simmer on medium-low heat for 5 minutes, until thickened. Add the mushrooms.

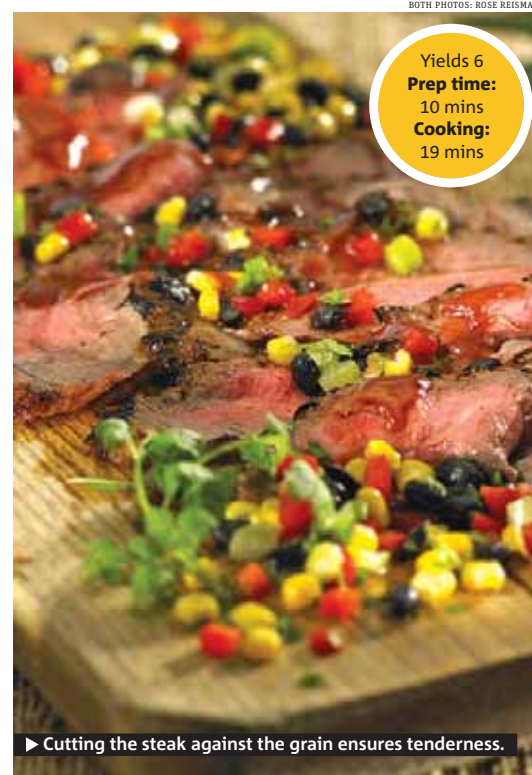

- 5 Slice the steak thinly across the grain and serve with the sauce. Garnish with a sprinkle of green onions and parsley.

WORKPLACE LAW

DANIEL LUBLIN

DAN@CANADA
EMPLOYMENTLAWYER.COM
TWITTER: @DANLUBLIN

Pietro Saladini was a "star" employee. He rarely missed work and did whatever he could to please his employer, auto parts manufacturer Affinia Canada Corp. However, Saladini's remarkable dedication to his job also made him a target.

As a midnight shift supervisor, Saladini seldom saw his family. But, his hard work paid off when Affinia finally promoted him to a supervisor on the company's daytime shift. Saladini figured he was set with what he referred to as the "golden shift" at work. But soon after, Affinia needed to fill a void when business picked up and, instead of hiring an extra employee to take on some of the overflow in work, the company figured that Saladini would do the job, without protest.

Saladini was summoned to a meeting with his boss and told that his shift schedule would change and, along with it, he would now be given more work without a corresponding increase in pay.

Although Saladini initially agreed, his loyalty soon morphed into anger, believing that he was being exploited by the company for having worked so hard before.

Saladini spoke with his boss stating that he did not want his shift to change but he was quickly told that he did not have a choice. He could either report to the new shift, or the company would view him as having resigned. When Saladini refused to agree, he was told to hand in his keys and escorted out of work. However, Saladini was not going to go quietly this time.

Believing that the ultimatum to take the new shift or resign was tantamount to a dismissal, he sued Affinia for wrongful dismissal, and recently he won!

Canadian courts are loath to uphold resignations proffered under circumstances of pressure or an ultimatum and instead will usually find that the employee had been fired. Here, when Saladini's boss told him that he must either take the job or resign, he was effectively terminated, according to the judge, who noted that Saladini was told to hand in his keys and leave, which is far more consistent with a dismissal than a resignation. A true resignation is a voluntary action

KEVIN CALLAHAN
TALENTEGG.CA

After completing university, I immediately created a job hunting strategy and used that strategy to find an incredible opportunity in Australia for a Canadian start-up.

Here is a break-down of my job-hunt strategy.

Contacts:

Keep your contacts warm and give them a reason to want to hear from you and ultimately help you. Nobody wants to hear from a job searcher only when they need their help.

Interact with them via their preferred method of communication. Sometimes this is informally through Twitter, and sometimes it's a quick email to ask them how their vacation was. By no means should you waste anyone's time, but building and keeping rapport, even after you secure a job, is an essential part of the job hunt.

I had a spreadsheet (literally!) that showed me who all of my contacts were, where they worked, and when I last spoke to them. Don't be robotic about it, but a little organization helps keep you on track.

Focus:

Even if you are willing to do anything (I've been there), try to show some restraint and zero in on a few job areas or industries.

While it may seem counter-intuitive to limit your search, it is actually much easier to tailor your application to specific jobs when they're all in the same industry.

Motivation:

Keep yourself motivated and positive – nobody wants to hire someone who is down in the dumps. This is an often overlooked but important job hunt tactic.

Polish:

Make sure every aspect of the job hunt is done properly, from having a well written, proofread cover letter to doing mock interviews with someone who can give useful feedback.

I have been on both sides of the interview table and I can say that people who have a polished resumé, are dressed appropriately, and are comfortable in their knowledge of the position and the company are rare.

Get involved:

Companies want students who are motivated and show a history of success. You may think this means work experience, but it can also mean extracurricular activities and sports teams. So, get involved in any way you can!

My advice to employers would be to try to craft a job posting in a way that speaks of your brand. Using the typical, dated job posting formula just isn't going to work anymore.

Where Kevin is now

I recently completed an MBA and I am a happy entrepreneur working on Dazzle.me, a website that combines deals from various sites into one convenient location. I love the online industry because it is fast-paced and constantly changing. It ties in all the things I enjoy, from social networking to client interaction.

AUTOCAD ONE-MONTH CERTIFICATE

Dan does okay. His job pays the bills and makes use of his computer skills, but he wants more challenge and some extra cash at the end of the month. He also wants to try his hand at computer-assisted design. He's done a bit of it here and there but wants to excel. So, Dan did his research and discovered that Bow Valley College offers one month of accelerated learning. In just one month over the summer, he'll walk away with a certificate as an AutoCAD operator. He spoke with a BVC advisor and learned that AutoCAD operators work in a variety of fields, including architecture, manufacturing, mapping, surveying, electronics, interior design, landscaping, and engineering. Dan registered by calling Continuing Education at Bow Valley College. Now he's getting ready to roll up his sleeves this summer for one month of intensive, hands-on learning. Dan knows that with BVC his designs for a better career will soon be a reality.

Dan has designs on a better career

Williams in tears after winning return

► Health problems had kept her from playing in a Grand Slam event for a year ► Federer, Djokovic both advance to the next round of Wimbledon

Returning to Grand Slam tennis after a year away with health problems, Serena Williams opened her Wimbledon title defence yesterday by beating Aravane Rezai in three sets — then burst into tears on Centre Court.

After serving her 13th ace to close a 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 victory, Williams buried her face in her towel and sobbed from her court-side chair. She was still crying as she left the court, overcome with emotion after enduring a long layoff that included two foot operations and treatment for blood clots in her lungs.

"I usually don't cry ... but it's just been so hard," but it's just been so hard," the four-time Wimbledon champion said. "I never dreamt I would be here right now. And then to win. I just wanted to win at least one match here."

Following Williams on Centre Court was Roger Federer, who began his chase for a record-equalling seventh Wimbledon championship by beating Mikhail Kukushkin of Kazakhstan 7-6 (2), 6-4, 6-2 in the wind.

Second-seeded Novak Djokovic, playing for the first time since his 43-match winning streak was stopped by Federer at the French Open, sailed into the second round with a 6-4, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Jeremy Chardy of France. Djokovic dropped only 11 points on serve.

Canadians Rebecca Marino and Stephanie Dubois advanced to the second round after posting their first career wins at the All England club.

But Aleksandra Wozniak of Blainville, Que., struggling with her comeback from an elbow injury, lost her first-round match to Czech Barbora Zahlavova Strycova 7-6 (7), 6-4. And Frank Dancevic of Niagara Falls, Ont., squandered two match points in a 3-6, 3-6, 6-4, 7-6 (6), 6-2 loss to Brazilian Ricardo Mello.

Vancouver's Marino defeated Patricia Mayr-Achleitner of Austria 6-3, 7-6 (5).

Thrashers sale gets unanimous approval

The NHL board of governors has unanimously approved the sale of the Atlanta Thrashers, paving the way for the club to move to Winnipeg for next season.

True North Sports and Entertainment bought the team last month and announced it was bringing the Thrashers to Winnipeg, which lost the Jets to Phoenix after the 1995-96 season. Yesterday's vote by the board was the final hurdle in the process to relocate the team.

The votes on the sale and the relocation were unanimous among the league's owners.

"We are very honoured by the NHL board of governors' unanimous decision today," Mark Chipman, True North's chairman of the board, said in a statement.

"We know that the fans of this province have an appetite for NHL hockey that is rivalled by few in the league and intend to work very hard to make Manitobans proud of our franchise for years to come."

There was a different emotion in Atlanta.

"It's a sad day for hockey fans in Atlanta, but the franchise is going to a good place and run by good people," Thrashers president Don Waddell said. "I wish them well, because a lot of good people are going to go with them."

The sale is reportedly for $170 million US, including a $60-million relocation fee that will be split by the rest of the owners.

Rematch takes much less time

The rematch of the longest match in tennis history certainly was a lot shorter.

A year after needing 11 hours five minutes spread over three days to finish a match that ended 70-68 in the fifth set, John Isner required only about two hours and a mere three sets to beat Nicolas Mahut of France in the first Isner won 7-6 (4), 6-2, 7-6 (6) yesterday.

"It wasn't easy," the American said, "but obviously it was considerably quicker than the last time we played."

Isner also won their first-round marathon at the All England Club in 2010, when play twice was suspended by darkness and the match shattered all sorts of records, including for most time on court, most total games, longest set and most aces.

Battery in the back

The eAssist gets its energy supply from a 115-volt lithium-ion battery that's positioned behind the rear seat.

The 29-kilogram battery's compact size means that the LaCrosse's 60:40 split rear seat will still fold flat for additional storage as before (unlike some other hybrid models), but with only about a 15 per cent reduction in trunk space.

Cooling things down

Lithium-ion batteries tend to generate a lot of heat, as anyone who has ever operated a laptop computer on their lap can readily attest.

To help cool things down, an electric fan is used that draws air from a vent located on the parcel shelf behind the rear seat. According to Buick, the fan motor will not be noisy enough to disturb any passengers.

Fuel economy

Buick promises that the driving experience with the new hardware won't differ from piloting a regular gas-engine model.

But what will be different is the fuel economy rating that the LaCrosse is expected to generate: 8.0l/100 km in the city and 5.4 on the highway.

Those numbers represent a significant 26 per cent improvement in city fuel economy and 16 per cent on the highway over the 2011 LaCrosse's 10.8/6.5 city/highway rating.

► The new eAssist technology will become standard equipment in all four-cylinder-equipped LaCroses without, according to Buick, adding a premium for it.

A gas-sipper, but not a hybrid

MALCOLM GUNN
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA
WHEELBASE MEDIA

Seekers of fuel-efficient mid- and full-size luxury sedans have had little choice but to shell out a hefty premium demanded by Lexus, BMW and Mercedes-Benz for a luxury gas-electric hybrid model.

That's about to change later this year when General Motors' Buick division rolls out its 2012 LaCrosse equipped with the eAssist system. As the name implies, eAssist is an electrified helper motor that doesn't independently power the car, but kicks in when the LaCrosse is accelerating or heading up hill.

But that's only part of the story, so much so that GM avoids using the term "hybrid" when referencing this technology.

Without getting overly geeky, eAssist begins with a 15-horsepower liquid-cooled electric motor-generator that replaces the LaCrosse's traditional alternator. Beyond providing power enrichment for the 182-horsepower 2.4-litre four-cylinder gas engine when needed, the generator also automatically shuts it down anytime the car comes to a stop, then instantly fires the engine up again when the driver takes his or her foot off the brake.

In addition, eAssist cuts off the gas engine's fuel supply whenever the LaCrosse is decelerating, while at the same time maintaining necessary power to the car's braking, steering and other electronic controls.

Pretty slick stuff.

► In case you're wondering when eAssist is doing its thing, the LaCrosse is more than happy to point it out.

► The usual LaCrosse interior features high style that's on par with many luxury brands.

LaCrosse eAssist

What you should know about the 2012 Buick LaCrosse eAssist:

- Types: Four-door front-wheel-drive mid-size entry-luxury hybrid sedan.
- Engine (hp): 2.4-litre DOHC I4 (182) combined with 15-horsepower electric motor.
- Transmission: Six-speed automatic.
- Market position: The eAssist LaCrosse takes on traditional luxury hybrids with its combination of excellent fuel economy, at a selling price that's expected to vary little, if at all, from its previous gas-engine-only drivetrain.
- Mileage: L/100 km (city/hwy) 8.0/5.4.

TESLA TAKES ON QUASI MAINSTREAM

AUTO PILOT

DRIVE
@METRONEWS.CA

Tesla, maker of all-electric vehicles, is going mainstream — or at least to Tesla's version of mainstream.

California-based Tesla arrived on the Canadian automotive landscape last year, with one model — the Roadster, a little all-electric ditty offering lots of get-up-and-go, and lots of exclusivity with its starting price of $125,000.

By next summer, Tesla will have another model — the Model S. A $57,400 luxury-sports sedan that will seat 5, or 7 with the optional rear-facing child seats. By 2013 we can expect Model X (a tall wagon or SUV kind of thing), and sometime after that, another sedan (a BMW 3 Series competitor kind of thing).

Tesla is determined to build and sell about 100,000 vehicles a year, which is more or less capacity of the former-Toyota plant (in Fremont, California) that Tesla took over last year.

► The upcoming Model S, and future sale tactics expected from Tesla are almost — but not quite — a move toward mainstream.

This sounds like mainstream volume, but don't be fooled. Tesla isn't interested in anything mainstream. The technology of the cars isn't mainstream, and either is how it intends to market and sell and service its growing volume.

We caught up with Tesla's main man in Canada, Hans Ulstrup in Toronto. While the Model S concept looks pretty fetching, Ulstrup assured me that the production car "looks even better."

Tesla Canada's first sales facility will be located in Toronto later this year, but don't go looking for it where dealerships usually congregate, like in those big, sprawling "auto malls" just outside the city.

Ulstrup said the showroom will be in one of the premier shopping malls in the GTA. And for style and feel, he said, "Think Apple Store..."

The same sales executive behind Apple's infiltration into the malls is behind Tesla's retail strategy — George Blankenship. Tesla Santana Row was the first such store (San Francisco), followed by Tesla Park Meadows is the second (Glendale, Colorado).

This calls for separate service facilities. Toronto's service facility opened just this week, near the airport. Tesla Service also does house calls. According to Ulstrup, other key Canadian cities for Tesla are Montreal, Calgary and Vancouver. (All around late 2012, or early 2013.)

You can now reserve a Model S, with a (refundable) deposit. The first 2,000 will be special "Signature" editions. Ulstrup noted that half of the 200 Signature models

Putting more Sport into a sporty car

► Many cars have 'Eco' buttons to help maximize fuel economy

It used to be that if you wanted to make your car sportier, you had to get out the wrenches. Today, with the electronic systems on many cars, you simply need to push the "Sport" button on the console.

Depending on the vehicle, activating the button might increase the steering resistance, change the throttle response or the transmission's shift patterns, adjust the shock absorbers or vary the exhaust.

"Our cars have numerous options and it depends on what is fitted to the car," says Laurance Yap, manager of public relations for Porsche Canada. "The more stuff on the car, the more the sport button does."

Traditional power steering relies on a hydraulic pump, but several new models have a combination of hydraulic and an electric motor, or completely electric-assisted steering.

"The electro-hydraulic steering gives you more assist at lower speeds, gradually dialing it back at higher speeds," Yap says. "When you hit the Sport button, it gives you less assist all across the board. We want that because it feels a bit heavier, with a bit more feel through the steering wheel."

When activated, the Sport program quickens the engine's response to your foot on the throttle. "You get more power earlier by pushing down less on the pedal, making it feel faster," Yap says. The engine can't make any more power in Sport mode, but it delivers it quicker. The automatic transmission also adjusts, holding each gear longer, keeping the engine at higher r.p.m., and locking out the higher, fuel-efficient gears — which is why cars tend to use more fuel in Sport mode.

If the suspension contains adjustable dampers, the Sport mode makes them stiffer, which improves handling. It also makes the ride firmer, but that's part of the fun. If there's an optional air suspension, the Sport mode will lower it to make the car more aerodynamic.

Finally, if it's a Porsche equipped with a special "sport" exhaust, there's one more benefit.

"It will open a flap in the exhaust to make it louder," Yap says.

"It doesn't give you any more power, but it makes it louder." And to a sports car fan, that definitely makes it better.

SECOND GEAR

JUSTIN PRITCHARD
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA

Though the Jeep Compass wasn't a diehard mud-slinger like its siblings, it intended to attract a new buyer to the brand with its fuel efficiency, city-friendly sizing and promise of affordable adventure.

All models got standard four-cylinder power and front wheel drive. The larger, 2.4-litre, 172-horsepower engine is typically preferred. Compass could be fitted with an "intelligent" AWD system that featured a driver-lockable centre differential for enhanced traction. Transmission choices were a manual five-speed box or a Continuously Variable Transmission (CVT).

Look for features like heated seats, Bluetooth, premium audio, a sunroof and multimedia connectivity. A household power outlet was also available, and split-folding seats enhanced cargo capacity when required. Sizing was in the same ballpark as a Toyota Matrix, Dodge Caliber or Mazda 3.

End of the day, compact driving dynamics, fuel effi-

What's the 4-1-1

- Model: 2007 to 2010 Jeep Compass.
- Vehicle type: Compact crossover/4x4.

► 2010 Jeep Compass North Edition

ciency and versatility moved the Compass from dealer lots more than off-road prowess, though Compass was capable of light to moderate off-road work as needed.

What owners like

Manoeuvrability, flexibility, all-season traction with 4x4 models and styling, all seem to be rated positively by the majority of Compass owners. Car-like ride quality, the up-level stereo and fuel mileage were also praised.

What owners dislike

Owner-stated complaints tend to centre around cheap interior plastics, sluggish performance from models with the CVT transmission, road noise, blind spots and limited ground clearance and off-road abilities.

Common issues

When test-driving a used Compass, "listen" to the vehicle's front end for signs of clunking, popping or grinding sounds while steering or travelling over bumps. Unwelcome noises could indicate a worn-out suspension component, and numerous owners have reported premature wear of these parts. Driveability issues with the CVT transmission, including reduced or sluggish acceleration, could be a computer-related problem fixed by rebooting or re-flashing the vehicle's computer brain. Grinding sounds from the CVT transmission, or a bucking or "jerking" sensation when decelerating, could be signs of trouble. Opt for a manual-equipped model where possible.

Finally, check the ceiling liner around the map lights, as well as carpeting in the front footwells for signs of moisture — which could indicate a leaky sunroof or drain tubes.

The verdict

Low resale values, good mileage and family-ready versatility will be the primary draws to the Jeep Compass in the used market. Shoppers seeking out a model with a manual transmission and a clean bill of health from a Chrysler-trained mechanic should enjoy fairly solid reliability and affordable all-season driving confidence.

Take a look at our sample story and then get writing!

Every road trip offers...

... memories to last a lifetime, but my most memorable was spent touring the Rocky Mountains in Alberta with my family. My parents packed my brother and me, aged 9 and 13, into our family SUV for a two-week trip.

I'm sure there were squabbles along the way, but when I look back I recall wonderful moments. I remember sunny days, stopping for ice cream at viewpoints along the highway, singing along to popular radio hits as we wound through the mountains and countless giggles as we entertained ourselves with silly road trip games like "I Spy".

But by far, the best part of our road trip was an unexpected adventure along the way. On an excursion to Lake Louise we took a wrong turn, and found ourselves driving down a secluded road underneath a canopy of trees, all alone except for an occasional sighting of wildlife. The views were spectacular and no one was in a hurry to return to the highway, so we carried on.

Eventually, the pavement became bumpy gravel. Crawling along at 10km an hour, we finally came to the end of the road – with a magnificent vista in view: sparkling turquoise water encircled by rugged mountains. Rather than reaching our planned destination, we had accidentally discovered Lake Moraine, a pristine glacial lake, far away from the touristy crowds. We sat still and quiet in the car, taking in the breathtaking view and realizing how lucky we were to get lost after all.

► Regular servicing, such as oil changes, can help protect keep your wheels on the road longer ► Simple procedures like regular oil changes allow drivers to drive their vehicles longer.

It's no surprise that consumers are keeping their automobiles for longer periods than before, but according to a study performed by the survey gurus at R. L. Polk & Co., Canadians are keeping their cars on the road longer than ever before. Forty-three per cent are still on the road today after 15 years, up from 28 per cent in 2000.

That's why it's important to protect the investment in your car.

A regular oil change is the service most likely to help prolong the life of your car. Changing the oil and using a high-quality motor oil that meets the specifications recommended by your vehicle's manufacturer helps your engine get the protection it needs.

- Check the oil level regularly and change the oil at the intervals outlined in your owner's manual.
- Replace the oil filter with every oil change.

Monitor your vehicle's fluids. Engine oil is not the only fluid your vehicle needs to run. Check your owner's manual to find information about where fluids are contained, how to check them and how much should be in each "reservoir." If you see drops of fluid under your car, you should be able to identify them by color or consistency. A few small drops are probably OK, but you should take note of small puddles.

- If the fluid is green, pink, yellow or fluorescent orange, it could indicate a cooling system leak or an overheating problem.
- If the fluid is dark brown or black, it is most likely engine oil. The engine could have a bad seal or gasket or a loose oil filter.
- A red oily spot means a transmission or power steering fluid leak.
- A small puddle of water is usually normal and is simply condensation from the air conditioning system or the defroster.

Today's horoscope

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Your outgoing attitude will draw people in, mainly because they want something only you can give.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 If you've made a mistake, you should own up to it now. Don't try to pin the blame on other people.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You need to be more open with partners and loved ones. Confide more in them than you do now.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Don't push yourself too hard today. In fact, don't push yourself at all.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 23 Put work and career matters on hold and focus on more personal issues.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24-Sept. 22 Let others know how much you care about them. Watch the tears though — no one likes a cry baby.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 If a loved one is feeling low today, make it your business to cheer him or her up.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Don't be suspicious today. If other's feel a lack of trust, they'll do business with someone else.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 Everything you do puts money in your pocket one way or another.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Look around you — you're still better off than most people. Now, where's that smile?

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 Almost anything you ask for now will be yours, if not immediately, then in a matter of hours or days.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Everything that's meant to happen, will — in its own good time. Be patient.
